CONSERVATION UNIT ORGANIZED IN HANCOCK CO. UNDER STATE LAW

Called Meeting at Hotel Weston Last Friday Resolves
Into Permanent Organization—Joseph O. Mauffray
Made President.

Wild life must be protected in Mississippi and to further the work started by State and Federal authorities, a numerous-attended meeting of citizens and State conservation authorities resolved into the permanent organization known as the Conservation of Wild Life, with the term wild life embracing fish, birds, animals and the related fields, forests and water.

After hearing several well-timed addresses by speakers at this meeting, presided over by J. Roland Weston, of Logansport, and Edward L. Jones as temporary secretary, Joseph O. Mauffray of Bay St. Louis was unanimously elected president. Fred A. Wright also of this city vice president and Joseph V. Bontemps, county game warden, secretary-treasurer.

Chairmen of other committees follow:

Membership—Fred A. Wright.
Highway Beautification—John H. Weston.
Publicity—Chas. G. Moreau.
Sanctuaries—J. Roland Weston.
Program—Mrs. R. B. Logan.

Executive Committee—J. O. Mauffray, Laurence Dickson, J. R. Weston, Mrs. Milton Phillips, Mrs. M. J. Jones, Chas. Monti, Jim Davis, G. L. Brown and Chas. B. Murthy.

Speakers at this particular meeting Miss Vivian Cook, executive secretary Mississippi Wild Life Conservation Association, Crystal Springs, Miss.; S. E. Moreton, Jr., chairman of Committee on Preserves and Sanctuaries, P. H. of the State Game Commission, Biloxi; Mrs. D. G. Rafferty, president, Mississippi State Game Club, of Pass Christian; Mr. K. E. Kimball, district forester, State of Mississippi and others.

Mrs. Marshall Ballard made a plea for the fishermen who earned a meagre livelihood by fishing; that while the State demanded a heavy license and other stipend which the sportsman was able to pay for his quota the man who made a living was handicapped because his earnings were all-insufficient. Her point was well presented and sustained.

It was evident by the attendance from county and out-of-town people and substantial enthusiasm prevailing that the unit was not only organized for permanency and accomplishment but that it would receive general co-operation on and that the work of protecting wild life which had been so auspiciously organized would succeed in the expressed objectives. Every man and woman, children as well, will assist in the further preservation of one of our chief assets, the wild life of Hancock county and surrounding territory.

TO SEEK OIL IN GULF COAST COUNTRY PROJECT TO BE STARTED AT ONCE

Gulf Refining Company, of Louisiana to Drill Well on Biloxi Bay—Hancock County Included in Block of Acreage Included In Prospective Operations.

The Gulf Refining Company of Louisiana, the most persistent pioneer in the development of oil and gas in Mississippi, will begin the drilling of a "wild cat" well in Jackson county, on the coast, immediately as the initial development on a block of 295,000 acres of land owned by the Dantzer Lumber Company, Robert L. Steffy of the special oil scout service announced at Jackson a few days ago.

The location will be in section 27-4S-8W. Jackson county, just across Biloxi bay from Biloxi in Harrison county. The block of acreage under contract to the Gulf includes acreage in seven counties, Jackson, Harrison, Hancock, Stone, Perry, George and Greene.

50,000 Acres Held
This company has done considerable geological and geophysical work on some 50,000 acres in Mississippi which they have under contract. Some 107,000 acres has been leased from Finkbine Lumber Company, in Simpson, Rankin and other South-Central Mississippi counties, and drilling operations in this block are to begin before next April 1.

The Jackson county location of the Gulf was made by C. M. (Army) Dorchester, geologist, and general agent in Mississippi for the Gulf—the man who discovered the Rich-

MERCHANT OFFERS $2 CASH PRIZE

C. B. Mollere, I. G. A. Store
Invites Public to Help
Write His Ads.

C. B. Mollere, owner and operator of the Waveland I. G. A. Store, who has built up a most extensive business by not only fair dealing and extreme low prices but by the medium of newspaper and general advertising thereby letting the public know what he has to sell and what are the prices, offers a weekly cash prize of $2.00.

This contest is open to all and is now open. Each and every week in his advertisement in The Echo Mr. Mollere has an introductory paragraph under the well-known heading of "C. B. Mollere Says." This paragraph tells something about the quality of the goods offered for sale, why it is best to trade there and so on.

For the best story of this kind a $2.00 cash prize will be given each week. One need not be a college graduate, a member of the literati to write such part the Mollere ads each week, but a plain, outward honest story and best expelling quality and service is all that is necessary for a chance to win and is all that Mr. Mollere wishes. Honesty and straightforwardness.

For further particulars apply at Mollere's I. G. A. Store. The contest is open. Try your hand today. Somebody is going to win the money. It might be you.

Call For Regular
Municipal Election
Tuesday, December 13

According to official notice published elsewhere in The Echo, signed by H. Wilbur Driver, chairman, Thomas Egloff and Warren Traub, an official call has been issued for the regular municipal election, City Bay St. Louis, which will take place Tuesday, December 13. Elected officers will assume the respective post on the first Monday of January. Nominees are G. Y. Blaize, Mayor; W. L. Bourgeois, and H. Grady Perkins, commissioners.

"LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE" SCREENED AS COMEDY-DRAMA

Mitzi Green and May Robson in Featured Roles of Famous Cartoon Story

Millions of newspaper readers each day follow the ups, the downs, the ins and outs of the career of "Little Orphan Annie." Now Annie, with her noble dog Sandy, and Little Mickey, and all the rest of Artist Harold Gray's characters, have come to life on the talking screen.

"Little Orphan Annie," RKO-Radio Picture with Mitzi Green in the title part, features also that fine veteran May Robson. It is truthful, straightforward, gripping comedy-drama with a bright strain of optimism all the way through. The story, essentially human, deals with the heroic attempts of one little orphan to care for another—to make him to be a good boy, to find him a good home.

As Little Orphan Annie, Mitzi Green makes her bow as an actress of real dramatic talent. There is little of the mimic in her work, no strained reaching after affects dependent upon her ability to ape the mannerisms of Chevalier or one of the Two Black Crows. Here Mitzi plays an emotional part like the real trouper she is.

Little Buster Phelps, as Annie's protegee Mickey, is as sweet a little fellow as ever tugged at a heart string. He has no important part and he plays it to perfection. He and Mitzi are an ideal pair, deserving of future work as a screen team.

There are other children in the cast. Lots of them. Adults, too, particularly May Robson in the dominant grown-up role as the rich foster mother. She and Mitzi and Buster—and the dog Sandy—are the picture.

John Robertson directed production with the fine sympathy and understanding for which he is noted. The screen play was written by Wanda Tuchock and Tom McNamara, the very able craftsmen, from the famous comic strip by Harold Gray.

"Little Orphan Annie" will be at the A. & G. Theater, Sunday and Monday.

DIRECT FROM CLUB PLANTATION TO BAY ST. LOUIS, SATURDAY

Francis Clark, Professional
Singer of Blues and Dancer, to Appear at Uncle
Charlie's Night Club

Thanksgiving week will be celebrated at Uncle Charlie's Night Club this Saturday night with the biggest floor show yet presented.

Francis Clark, professional singer of the blues and dancer, will appear in her inimitable performance. She has just completed a twelve-week engagement at Plantation Club, famous night club at New Orleans, and it was only after much difficulty and negotiation that Uncle Charlie was able to procure this metropolitan attraction for a city the size of Bay St. Louis. But enterprise generally wins.

Miss Clark will appear this Saturday night, and will be the top notcher of the night's program, with two shows.

Free Lecture at Central School Friday Sponsored by P. T. A.

On Friday evening, December 2nd, at 8 o'clock, Mrs. S. Sanford Levy, will lecture on law enforcement and the school. Mrs. Levy is a very pleasant woman, Pi Beta Kappa from Tulane, and made a splendid race for judge of the Juvenile Court, recently. Her talk promises to be most interesting and the public is urged to be present. There will be no admission fee.

buoyed up by the latest activity of Gulf. This is the first activity of the major oil company since last January when they completed two wells in the Jackson field. The fraternity sees the latest activity as being a sign that other major companies are going to ignore the economic depression and resume their operations on this side of the river.

Another encouraging activity in "wildcatting" in Mississippi has followed the very extensive core drilling campaign in the Collins area of Covington county, also in south Mississippi, where the Eastman Gardner Lumber interests are now negotiating with several drilling contractors for the drilling of a deep test well in that territory. The Laurel lumber firm owns in fee simple thousands of acres of cut-over pine lands in that area.

MOTHERS' CLUB AT COLLEGE

Hold Meeting at S. S. C.
Parlors and Further Out-
Line Plan of Work

Presided by Mrs. Edmund F. Fahy, president, the Mothers' Club of St. Stanislaus College, held its second meeting at the parlors of the college Sunday morning at 11 o'clock with an attendance which was a manifestation of interest and gave evidence that the Mothers' Club is an organization that will serve to constructive and practical service.

Bro. William, president S. S. C., was present. J. C. Roland, Class '33, served in the absence of the secretary and read the minutes of previous meeting.

The Mothers' Club is composed of mothers not only of Bay St. Louis but of mothers of boys living away, especially in New Orleans where there are a large number.

The club is offered by Mrs. Fahy as president, Mrs. J. H. Redman, of New Orleans, vice president; Mrs. John W. Bryan recording secretary; Mrs. J. J. Grevenberg, treasurer.

"The principal object of this association," said Brother William, "is to create interest in the activities of the school among the parents and friends of the school. To bring to the fore the doings of the class room, the activities of the campus, and to let patrons know what is going on within the walls of the college. The secondary object is a cooperative one. It is to bring to the attention of patrons the needs of the school. This association can be by its influence and by its cooperation bring about the improvements so sadly needed."

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ziegler, grandparents of Charles and Joe Jesse, started the treasury off on a sound basis, by donating $100 to the cause. This announcement was much appreciated by the members present as the applause indicated.

Sunday Services at Main Street Methodist Church, Bay St. Louis

Regular services will be held Sunday morning and evening at Main St. Methodist Church, Rev. C. C. Clark, pastor, who plans to leave Bay St. Louis on Thursday of next week when he will go to Waynesboro, in Wayne county, located south of Meridian.

There will be the regular Sunday School services at 10 o'clock, preaching at 11 o'clock and at 7:30 o'clock evening regular night services. Members of the church and other friends are cordially invited to attend both morning and evening services.

W. A. McDONALD HAS FLOCK OF TURKEY- CHICKENS ON VIEW

Fowls Half Turkey and Half
Chicken—Also a Curio
Cradle Over 85 Years.

W. A. McDonald, resident and local business man, has at his place of business several curios and things of more than ordinary interest and well worth seeing.

Among these things none the less curious of the "Believe It Or Not," are five hens and one rooster, of the turkey-chicken variety. The fowls are large size, body chicken-shaped, while the breast and neck are distinctively turkey and the head resembling that more of the chicken than the turkey. The hens are white, with the usual red, long turkey neck, and the rooster-gobbler of buff color predominating.

These fowl are unusually odd looking and in the vernacular cross between chicken and turkey.

"When I first learned of these," said Mr. McDonald, "I discounted the possibility of such a thing. I wrote the owner of this unusual strain and possibly poked so much fun at the fellow that he failed to reply, apparently disregarding my letter because of its jest. I wrote him again and this culminated in the fact that I purchased the half dozen chicken-turkeys and here they are." Since seeing is believing there was nothing left but for The Echo reporter to accept the fact. There is no explanation to these freaks or monstrosities. They must be seen to be appreciated. Mr. McDonald will be glad to show you!

Cradle 85 Years Old.

Mr. McDonald had recently shipped to Bay St. Louis a home-made cradle that belonged to his father, when living on a farm four miles from Middleton, Tenn. The first baby of the McDonalds, Sr., was rocked and slept in this cradle. Its sides are made of pine and the "rockers" of poplar. Measurements of the body are 18 inches wide and 3 1/2 feet long. During its use its white and one colored baby were lulled to sleep and taken care of within its narrow confines. Mr. McDonald was one of the 15 and naturally cherishes the relic.

The old home burned and the cradle had been stored away in the second story of the old potato house. Recently Mr. McDonald visited the scene of the old homestead. He was told that the cradle was saved because the potato house had not been destroyed. He paid for it and shipped to Bay St. Louis followed. For 47 years the cradle had no occupant. The colored baby of the time when in use was a child of a servant of the family. This "baby" is a grown man today and Mr. McDonald recently located him.

The odd-looking and primitive cradle is at the McDonald place of business and can be viewed daily. It is not as fancy nor was it as costly as cradles of today but served to practical purposes and is good for another period of 85 years.

A. J. McLEOD STILL IS DESTROYED

Turpentine Plant Eleven
Miles of Bay City Prey To Flames Friday, 4 P. M.

Turpentine plant belonging to the McLeod Turpentine Company, located eleven miles north of Bay St. Louis was destroyed by fire Friday afternoon Nov. 18th. The fire occurred about four o'clock in the afternoon while still in operation. The kettle boiled over, and instantly the entire plant was enveloped in flames.

Adjoining property was saved by the diligent and heroic work of those who volunteered to fight the dangerous flames. Several of those fighting the fire received slight burns on their bodies and clothing. Regardless of this they continued the work, and were successful in protecting dwellings dangerously near. Some parts of the equipment and stock was saved from total destruction. However amount saved was very small in comparison to the loss suffered. Cooper shed, tools, staves, barrel headings, and resin barrels on hand were destroyed. All turpentine stock, dip barrels, empty turpentine barrels, resin scales, practically entire shed, and some parts of still proper were lost. At this writing there has been no estimate made as to the amount in dollars and cents of the damage.

The McLeod plant has been in operation at this location since 1900, and for the last few years has been the only plant of the kind in operation in Hancock county. The owners plan to rebuild at once, as they have quite a quantity of raw material to run before closing the season. Work of rebuilding will be started at once. The Echo was informed, in order to resume operations as early as possible.

Mrs. McLeod and others interested with through the columns of The Echo to express their thanks and gratitude in the excellent work resulting in saving property nearby, several residences seriously endangered.

SHELL CO. TO OPEN STATION

Purchases Land on Coleman
Avenue and Will Begin
First-Class Service
Station.

A deal was consummated this week whereby the Shell Petroleum company purchased from Chas. B. Mollere a portion of ground lying between his store building and postoffice on Coleman avenue. Negotiations had been going on for some time and were finally concluded this week.

Construction of a first-class service station, with double and modern rest rooms will be started at once and the place will be open for business as early as practicable, possibly January 1.

In turn the Shell company has leased the place to Sylvanus (Boby) Moran, well-known resident of this section of Hancock county, who will run the business for his own account. "Thousands of people go through this thoroughfare of Waveland from time to time," said Mr. Moran. "Especially cars coming out of New Orleans and going through on to the Coast. A service station, with rest rooms and every modern convenience and accommodation will be offered the traveling public and I will endeavor to specialize in not only Shell products as a matter of course, but in service. Service and plenty of it and at all times will be my motto."

Bay St. Louis not quite ready for such convention and not an applicant as yet, since the W. B. A. Home and Hall has not as yet been built, but will at no distant date, Gulfport was awarded the 1933 spring state rally of the Women's Benefit Association at the close of the annual rally held in Biloxi Thursday and which was attended by about 125 delegates representing, Meridian, Laurel, Hattiesburg, Bay St. Louis, Gulfport, Biloxi, Pensacola and New Orleans Reviews. The meeting was one of the most successful ever held.

Mrs. Fay Arguelles, managing deputy, gave the address of welcome and the response was made by Mrs. Irene C. Earnest, president of the New Orleans Review. A luncheon was held at noon and the afternoon session was featured by the initiation of a large class of candidates from the Coast reviews by the Gulfport team.

Mrs. Pearl H. Croy, state field director, delivered an address on the new plans of protection, and of the next supreme convention, which will be held in Cleveland, O., in 1935.

The night session was opened to the public and was featured by a brilliant pageant, for which Mrs. Moore, captain of the Biloxi drill team, who supervised it, was highly praised. The opening march and seating of the officers, was given by the Biloxi team. Mrs. Scholtes, president of the Biloxi Review, had as her escorts, members of the Biloxi Girls' Club who were attired in evening dresses and the flower girls were little Misses Joan Kornman and Yvonne Burdine, and were dressed in orchid and carried orchid chrysantheums. Mrs. Louise Stratos, Gulfport president, was escorted by the Gulfport Girls club, who wore evening dresses and carried shower bouquets. Her flower girls were little Dorothy Mae Gentile and Dorothy Wedgeworth in old fashioned costumes of white.

Miss Engman, Bay President

Miss Miriam Engman, Bay St. Louis president, was escorted by the Bay St. Louis Girls' Club, who were dressed in evening clothes and carried flowered hoops. The flower girls were little Emily Clare Murtagh and Gilda Astleford.

This was followed by the seating of Mrs. Fay Arguelles, managing director, escorted by the Biloxi girl club who carried old fashioned bouquets. Mrs. Croy, the guest of honor, was seated next and the Bay St. Louis Girls club carrying shepherd's staffs were escorts. The flower girls were little Shirley Ann Redding and Mary Elaine Jelusich who wore dainty costumes.

Miss Dora Necaise Queen.

The outstanding feature of the night's program was the coronation of Miss Dora Necaise of Bay St. Louis as queen of the pageant by Mrs. Croy. She had as her maids Misses Lurline Schneider, Dot Arguelles, Lucille Gabrich, of Biloxi; Frances Cain, Olga Misner and Dementia Hoover of Gulfport, and Veronica Maneiri and Katherine Seafide of Bay St. Louis. The train bearers were Georgia Rose Staehle and May Francis Seafide of Bay St. Louis. Little Miss Vivian Prague was the crown bearer.

Miss Necaise, attractive young brunett of striking beauty and charming personality, wore her queenly crown and mantle with becoming grace and dignity. Many friends of Miss Miriam Engman, local president, friends of the W. B. A. in general and of Miss Necaise attended the coronation and enjoyed the entertainment of the evening.

An entertainment program followed the address of welcome by Hon. Mayor John J. Kennedy and the response was by Mrs. Croy. The Biloxi drill team gave a patriotic drill; Miss Verna Davis an acrobatic dance; Mrs. S. J. Corso, a song accompanied by Miss Veronica Lacaze; Miss Hazel Glass a toe dance; Miss Erna LeBlanc and Frances Seafide, Bay St. Louis, a vocal duet; Miss Melba Burdine a tap dance; Caveta Acevedo, a vocal solo accompanied by Mrs. Corso; Miss Erna LeBlanc a dance; Mrs. Croy an address; Misses Davis, Glass and Burdine, a butterfly dance. The program was brought to a close with a number by the Biloxi Bay St. Louis and Gulfport girls and was followed by a ball. Miss Levin Engman, Bay St. Louis was accompanist.

CATHOLICS HIT INDECENT LITERATURE.

THE country is rampant with literature of both questionable quality and indecent in the extreme. The flood gates seem to have been opened and there seems comparatively little resistance, at least, apparently so.

Condemnation of "indecent literature" was voted unanimously by the members of the Catholic hierarchy in their meeting at Catholic University, according to information from an Associated Press Special.

Two cardinals, eight archbishops and more than 70 bishops attended. Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, dean of Catholic prelates in the United States and Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago presided.

The resolution on indecent literature said it would be "blindness not to recognize the looseness and laxity of morals which both hastened the economic chaos of the world and now plays its part in extending laxity in public morals and loss of public decency."

It deplored what it described as the "increasing flood of immoral and immoral books" and other such publications and said public opinion had "influenced the courts of the nation to such an extent" that it was now "almost impossible to have the most obscene of books debarred from the customs or from the mails."

FOR PRESERVATION OF WILD LIFE.

A MEETING of citizens of Hancock County and representatives from other sections of the State, interested in the subject, was held last Friday morning at Hotel Weston, Bay St. Louis, in the interest of organizing a county unit to the State organization for further protection of wild life.

The meeting was notable from the fact not only that its attendance was representative but also for its objective, and The Echo notes with satisfaction that the purpose for which the meeting was held was accomplished. That was to organize in ranks and understanding to enforce present laws and to further aid by individual interest.

There was every manifestation that the meeting and the association resulting will accomplish in time the ultimate end in view. This specie of life is not only fast becoming exhausted but in time extinct.

With such unit it is easy to foresee that in time the fish and game that are practically gone will again return in former number and the supply plentiful for each and everyone.

The penalty of ruthless slaughter right and left is severe. Organization of the unit for preservation is timely and acclaimed with satisfaction and assurance for the future.

LAST OF THE "LAME DUCKS"

IN a few weeks Congress will reconvene and we will again have the spectacle of repudiated legislators exercising authority that will remain effective for one year, unless a special session of Congress is called in March.

However, thanks to the long and vigorous fight of Senator Norris, this will be the last "lame duck" Congress to govern the United States. The amendment to the Constitution, sponsored by the Nebraska senator, has been ratified by one-half of the necessary thirty-six states and before the next general election, will undoubtedly be law. By its terms, the congress and president elected in 1936 will take office in January, 1937.

Why is it that bargains are always advertised when we have no money?

Education should include physical, mental and spiritual development. Ignorance in either sphere means an ignorant individual.

One trouble with agriculture is that many farmers have to worry more about raising interest than raising crops.

Church collection plates have given no indication that the bottom of the depression has been passed.

An editorial in the Jackson Clarion-Ledger is headed: "Have a Heart—Do your Christmas Shopping Early." The question naturally arises Shop With What?

A Jackson paper says, "Tax reductions needed, not tax revision." A tax revision means increased assessment; an assessment revision means tax increase.

We observe that some of the bright writers for some of the big papers report an abundance of credit in the land; they fail to say, however, that most of it is on the books from business of previous years.

Here's a new idea—European negotiators hope to convince us that payment of war debts will hurt us as much as their own countries. This may be so, but generally cash-in-hand soothes the spirit of the collector.

An encouraging sign is found in the announcement to the effect that one or more of the larger tourist hotels on the Gulf Coast, rumored to remain closed this winter, will function as usual, repeated rumor to the contrary.

CONGRESS FACES PROBLEMS.

CONSIDERABLE speculation is being indulged in by the political writers who attempt to prognosticate upon the probable action of Congress next month.

Among the important matters that will require immediate attention, one might include, besides the war debt issue, the question of finding additional revenue to balance the budget that continues to show a deficit in spite of the new taxes enacted at the last congress. Moreover, the Wets will make a determined drive to secure some modification of the Dry laws, the advocates of the veterans' bonus will once again press for immediate payment, and the farmers of the nation for more adequate and effective relief from the economic squeeze in which they find themselves.

Present prospects, as far as we can determine, are that Congress will refuse any further extension of war debt payments or cancellation of the indebtedness, and that the bonus bill will be defeated by a veto if it manages to secure a majority, which appears doubtful.

The Wets have won beyond doubt. They have carried the country and marked it as not only a farce but as an expensive experiment in an instance where it might be a means of a source of the much-needed added revenue. Our loss of revenue has been double. First in the amount of millions expended in trying to enforce the law and added millions lost as a source of revenue.

It is hoped, and expected, Congress will remedy this prohibition humbug as early as practicable and give the country beer and wine. In fact, give us such measures of relief as is possible and within power of Congress to amend certain present prohibitory laws.

What will be done in the name of farm relief is a matter of uncertainty but a more general realization of the necessity to restore the purchasing power of the farmer before the nation will enjoy normal conditions, will probably lead to a determined effort to take some action.

FEEDING ITINERANT MENDICANTS.

WITH the advent of winter the number of transient unemployed and beggars increase and Bay St. Louis is receiving an overabundant share of this traveling tribe, working a hardship on every home in Bay St. Louis. No one will refuse food, but the demand is increasing from day to day until a line will by necessity be drawn.

Feeding the transient hungry is in too many instances at the expense of our local needy and victims of the times. Our local charity organizations are doing manifold work, feeding the hungry and succoring the needy to the extent that is hardly believable when one considers the resources of a small community to draw from.

It must be remembered that it is practically the same ones doing the bulk of good and who contribute. If we are to give of our largeness to many who go through daily it may last a while but in time we will have to limit to closer bounds our contributions which go to assist the local hungry and otherwise needy.

The exodus from other places, passing through Bay St. Louis, is growing to appalling proportions. And the wisdom of railroad companies carrying the itinerant hobo and beggar is doubted. It were better for this class to remain at home. The Southern sections have sufficient problems that beset them with present conditions rather than to allow a congestion of others seeking warmer and possibly more cordial climate.

LOOKED AHEAD.

THE management of almost every public school is facing a difficult problem due to the adverse business conditions and the demands by taxpayers that taxes be reduced.

The City of Ithaca, New York, is an exception. There the school trustees have just completed a half million dollar building without issuing any bonds. All salaries of teachers have been paid.

Answering the question as to how it was done Dr. Clyde B. Moore, a Cornell University Professor and member of the Ithaca school board, says it was by applying the good business principles of not spending the last cent of yearly income and by building up a reserve during good times for the unusual period now being faced.

The management of schools in every section of this country could very well profit by the lesson from Ithaca.

"Several years ago," says Dr. Moore, "the policy was formulated for Ithaca schools of anticipating future needs by conserving any surplus funds and including in the budget an item for future building needs. Now, during years of somewhat decreased incomes, there is no dearth of funds for school needs."

CROSSING AMERICA.

THE speedy crossing of the continent from East to West by Colonel Roscoe Turner, who made the trip in twelve hours and thirty-three minutes, calls to mind the progress that is being made in aerial transportation.

Passenger, mail and express service between the two coasts has been scheduled for twenty-four hours and it is reported that this will be cut one hour in the early part of 1933 when a transcontinental airline, with new machines that will cruise at 155 miles an hour, are put into service. Other planes under construction are expected to make the journey in fourteen hours.

Looking into the future, one finds airline operators thinking about a 200 mile-an-hour schedule. They point to the 100-mile-an-hour cruising speed of a year ago, to the 125-mile-an-hour in effect today and the new 150-mile-an-hour planes that are in sight and insist that faster speed is not fantastic in view of past progress. Advances have been made in designing planes and engines, as well as in technical operating skill.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, long a spokesman for Democrats in financial matters, will take over chairmanship of the finance committee which frames tax legislation, in place of Reed Smoot of Utah.

SAUNTERINGS. From Where The West Begins.

JOHN T. MEYERS,
San Antonio, Texas.

OLD man Boreas has been master of ceremonies in San Antonio for the past week. The citizenry have jiggered, shivered, and clapped numb hands to chilling tunes whistled through the icy whiskers of this bold intruder from northern regions.

Bright Sunshine, a dangerous foe to anyone attempting to "muscle in" on his favorite San Antonio territory, has been taking time out to refuel. But old man Boreas is scheduled for a hasty exit with Sol blistering his frost-bitten heels and he hops over the last cactus plant heading northward, according to reports from the weatherman.

Here's a tale they tell on the Alamo City's publicity crowd: A radio station sponsored by a local newspaper used in connection with its call letters the slogan, "Where the sunshine spends the winter." All was well until a six-inch snowfall visited the city. Then things suddenly went haywire. The editorial room phoned the newspaper, radio station, and chamber of commerce were outstanding targets for the wit of jokers.

"Say, when did the sunshine decide to winter in Florida, or California?" were among the many jocular queries. Not to be outdone in a tight spot, one clever staff member intimated that as a perfect host San Antonio was merely giving the tourists a touch of home weather so they would not get homesick.

Chili con Carne is a popular year round food in the west. In appearance it is a soup-like mixture containing bits of meat and pinto beans swimming in melted beef tallow. Chili has tantalizing aroma that lures a Chili joint quite some distance before hand.

A new comer usually has to cultivate a taste for this highly seasoned Mexican dish. Upon first introduction one feels all aflame inside. Drinking water only tends to exaggerate this belief. On cold days no other modestly priced food can compare with a bowl of Chili for nourishing and warming a person exposed to the elements. Ask someone who has been caught out in a typical Texas "blue norther."

Other Mexican foods popular in San Antonio are enchiladas, tamales, tacos, and a host of other dishes with chili pepper seasoning as the chief ingredient. In place of bread the Mexican people use tortillas. These are made from a corn batter mixture patted by hand into shape of a pan cake, and cooked on a griddle.

The noon day meal of a Mexican peon often consists of these tortillas wrapped about some frijoles (beans). If the family is fortunate enough to own a goat, this laborer may have milk with his meal. If not, he will leisurely smoke a cigarette. . . . and then back to his tasks apparently as contented as though he had partaken of a sumptuous banquet.

Like other modern cities, San Antonio has its quota of luxurious and late-model motor cars driven about the streets. But there still remains much of the pioneer day custom and style in the everyday life of this Spanish-American city.

Quite often mi-lady, on a tour of shopping, must halt her shiny limousine to give right of way to "one speed," dilapidated, donkey-drawn cart filled with vegetables. She knows from experience that impatient honking of the horn may bring from the Mexican driver a gracious, "Si, Si, Sonora," accompanied by many eloquent hand gestures. But the burro will move no faster than did his honorable ancestors.

It is no uncommon sight to witness a covered wagon rambling down the main street. The family aboard this prairie schooner resemble life like characters from the pages of history. Tents, shovels, an ax, pans and cooking utensils are lashed to the side of the wagon. Everything is in readiness for a camping spot when these travelers decide to stop for food and rest. To all appearance they are carefree and happy. Their chief concern is getting through traffic of big cities. The wide open spaces is their undisputed haven.

Western atmosphere truly begins here. Groups of cattlemen on a visit to town are always to be found before downtown hotel entrances discussing the cattle market and topics in general. Visitors from the leather-tanned sons of the saddle, as they sprawl in typical western indifference about lobby chairs of first-class hotel lobbies.

The majority of the cowmen are clad in their picturesque ranch togs, from ten gallon hats down to the fancy decorated cowboy boots and spurs. The clinking of their high heeled boots on the pavement is no novelty to the local resident.

Vice-President elect John Nance Garner, of Uvalde, Texas, again repeated his ability as a Nimrod, being one of the first hunters to bring down a deer in his section of the State. An eight point buck is credited to the merriment aim of this beloved Texas statesman.

Garner also enjoys the reputation as a fisherman of no mean ability. He brings back the big ones from streams around his Uvalde home. Bass fishing is his favorite sport and recreation from strenuous political duties in Washington.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

CARS PARKED ON BRIDGE.

Editor Sea Coast Echo:

Permit me space in your valuable paper.

Why is there a car parked at all times on bridge across the Bay of St. Louis? Should a car come along with bad brakes—while this car is parked on bridge. There certainly will be a fatal accident. Possibly this car is owned by someone fishing as car could not belong to workman as there is no work done on bridge on Sunday. I thought there was a law prohibiting cars parking on traffic bridge. Again, any man working as draw tenders should be brought out there and have car return for them when their day's work is done. The above car is parked on bridge everyday, Sunday included.

AN OBSERVER.

TO GASOLINE BUYERS.

Editor Sea Coast Echo:

When buying gas beware of the man who jerks the center pipe on gas tank down and draws a whole lot of bubbles and opens up the hose to your car if you want to buy five gallons you will get four scant gallons. They do the trick mighty fast. "Keep a watch on them like a hawk watches a chicken" when he wants to grab it. Thanks for your publishing this.

ONE WHO WAS STUNG.

Editor's Note—The Echo has no knowledge of the practice complained by its correspondent and is of the opinion such questionable method does not knowingly exist by owners and legitimate operators. The fact, in the last analysis is that they could not afford it. Like the proverbial one swallow not making a summer, a possible instance or more or an alleged practice of this kind does not consist of a general malpractice.

However, in justice to the writer his letter is published and further in order to put the consumer on the look-out. This may exist out of town and wherever it may it is well to keep a sharp eye open. All men are honest until proven otherwise.

1933 MISSISSIPPI AUTO LOCK TAGS BEING SENT OUT

First Shipment Go to Sheriffs With Voluminous Instructions.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 21.—Within the next few days 82 sheriffs will receive Mississippi's new 1933 automobile lock tags, along with voluminous instructions about how to operate them.

The first shipments went out today, State Auditor Joe S. Price announced.

Auditor Price is preparing a list of the numbers assigned to each county, which will be somewhat changed from the assignments of former years, owing to the fact that fewer tags were purchased this year because of the drop in registrations anticipated.

The new tags are a patented type, invented by a Jackson man but manufactured in St. Louis under contract. The tags are so constructed that they cannot be removed once they are affixed to the automobile, without defacing.

The new tags go on sale December 1, and must be attached to all cars by January 1 in order to escape penalties.

Higher prices affect the new tags, also, although with the 10 per cent registration allowance, many owners of old cars will pay less this year than last, Price said.

Black-Draught Clears Up Sluggish Feeling

"I have used Theodor's Black-Draught for constipation for a long time," writes Mrs. Frank Champion, of Wabine, Ark.
"It got up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish, a dose of Black-Draught three times a day will cause the fields to pass away, and in a day or two I feel like a new person. After many years of use, we would not exchange Black-Draught for any medicine."

EROSION OR SOIL WASHING A FARM PROBLEM

Conserve Soil Fertility By A System of Terraces.

THE SOIL is the farmer's source of income, his primary investment—his wealth.

The greatest loss to Southern soil fertility and the subsequent crop production is caused by erosion or soil washing.

Millions of acres of farm lands in the hill sections of the South, because of the sandy loam nature of the top soil, have been ruined by soil washing. Terracing is the best method of controlling surface water and preventing damage to the hill lands in cultivation, which if left alone will wash into ditches or gullies and render the land valueless.

Soil washing not only exhausts fertile cultivated fields but also buries valuable valley lands and clogs drainage systems.

Our semi-tropical climate induces more extreme warm seasons with heavy rains falling upon the light sandy loam soils show considerable more erosion than heavier soils.

With removal of stumps, growing of both winter and summer legumes to be plowed under, and building of terraces along with crop rotation, farmers can feel better assured of good crop yields from the commercial fertilizers applied than in those communities where such a plan is not practiced.

A number of of terracing demonstrations have been held in Hancock County this fall; others are planned, and I shall try to meet with other groups of farmers for further demonstrations as rapidly as possible and in the order in which the requests are made.

Boys now enrolling in the 4-H Club work will meet in groups from time to time for terracing demonstrations in those communities in the county where terracing is needed.

UNCLE CHARLIE'S NITE CLUB SCENE OF DELIGHTFUL EVENING

Uncle Charlie's Night Club, formerly Bay-Waveland Club, now owned and operated by Chas. A. Breath, is one of the recognized places of amusement and evening pastime and the large and elite attendance is an indication of its rightful recognition. Last Saturday night the club with its many tables entertained a large crowd of local and out of town patrons. The two floor shows, one at 11:30 and the other at 1:30 were well received. Joseph Gilbert with a voice that wins sang a number of popular new songs before the microphone, and his dancing and personality won repeated applause. Mrs. Ludwick sang a number of "blues" and her hit of the evening was her characterization of the melody, "River, Keep Away From My Door." Misses Beatrice Smith and Grace Hill gave a catchy and pleasing interpretation of "Sidewalks of New York" in song and dance. Other numbers completed the program.

For Thanksgiving
Thanksgiving will be celebrated Saturday night with a better and bigger floor show and dancing will be featured by the popular dance orchestra in attendance.

Rev. C. C. Clark To Be Transferred To Waynesboro

Rev. C. C. Clark, pastor Main Street Methodist Church, Bay St. Louis, has returned from Meridian where he attended annual Conference at which assignments are made for the following year. Mr. Clark will go to Waynesboro, while he will be succeeded in Bay St. Louis by Rev. E. J. Gray, now of Crystal Springs, but well known in Bay St. Louis by reason of having been located at Logtown some few years ago. He is by no means a stranger here.

Rev. Clark has served Bay St. Louis the past four years and his departure from our midst will be the occasion of general regret by members of all denominations and the public generally, having endeavored himself to all who know him and ways been contributory to the more truly can be said his services in and out of the church have always been "above self."

Mrs. Clark his wife, has equally endeared herself to the community and her work and activities have been constructive and lasting elements that make for men, women and community. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will be followed by the good wishes of one and all who knew them best.

NOTICE ABOUT THE THREE PAYMENT TAX PLAN FOR THE CITY

Various persons are circulating petitions against the amendment to the Charter of the City of Bay St. Louis, which provides for the payment of your taxes in three installments, that is so you can pay part before February 1st, part before May 1st, and part before August 1st.

Some of those persons who are circulating these petitions are maliciously misrepresenting the facts and procuring signatures by telling the prospective signers that the petitions are for the purpose of preventing the City Administration from borrowing large sums of money this statement is absolutely false.

FIRST: Because the City cannot borrow as the City depository refuses to lend, and SECOND: The present City administration will not attempt to make any further loan during their term of office.

THIRD: As the Governor and the Attorney General must approve the amendment, it would most likely not become effective until after our term expires, that is January 1st.

The proposed amendment against which some people have signed the petition is an exact copy of Chapter 24 of the Laws of the State of Mississippi 1931, which permitted the tax payers to pay their taxes in installments, made applicable to the City.

We have no personal interest in having this amendment adopted, we therefore passed the resolution, so that the tax payers would be relieved of the burden of paying taxes in full before February 1st, as the legislature may not give us the same tax paying relief as they did last year.

What motive there is behind the persons circulating the petitions we do not know, but we assure you that the tax payers interest is what we had at heart, adopting the amendment.

We therefore respectfully request all persons who have signed the petition to further consider the matter and to attend the meeting of the Board of Commissioners on Monday, December 5th, 1932, at ten o'clock, A. M.

Respectfully,
CHAS. TRAUB, SR., Mayor,
F. H. EGLOFF,
SYLVAN J. LADNER,
Commissioners.

NOTICE OF REGULAR MUNICIPAL ELECTION.
Notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, December 13th, 1932, a regular Municipal election will be held in the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, to elect a Mayor, Commissioner and two Commissioners.

Said election to be held as provided by Section 2656, of the Mississippi Code of 1930, and all other laws and ordinances pertaining thereto.

THOMAS EGLOFF, WARREN TRAUB.

LOCAL FORTHCOMING WEDDING ANNOUNCED.

The forthcoming marriage of Mr. H. Grady Perkins, young son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Perkins, and Miss Norma Gex, both of this city is announced, the ceremony to be performed in this city Saturday morning, November 26, at the Catholic church rectory, Rev. Father Leo F. Fahey to perform the ceremony at 8 o'clock.

After which the bridal party will leave for a trip to Havana, Cuba planning to be away ten days. Owing to the imminence of the contracting parties to be, the announcement attracts more than ordinary interest and is a social event of the fall season.

LINGERIE SHOWER FOR MISS NORMA GEX.

No affair in social circles has attracted more interest than the lingerie shower given Tuesday afternoon at the R. E. Perkins home, North Beach Boulevard, by the Misses Mary and Gertrude Perkins, in compliment to Miss Norma Gex who is to be the bride this week of Mr. H. Grady Perkins, local resident and city-commissioner-elect.

Some forty friends assembled to offer their best wishes to the bride-to-be of the week and to "shower" her with pieces of lingerie in substantial tribute to her popularity and as an attestation of their affection. Packages large and packages small, daintily and attractively done, carrying bands of tiny ribbon of silken and satin texture added to the color and atmosphere of the occasion.

Misses Perkins, prospective sisters-in-law of the bride-elect, were gracious in their reception, as well as the charming and accomplished honoree of the occasion. Later in the afternoon plate refreshment were served and the lovely and beautiful affair had come to the end with the fading shadows of the late afternoon.

THANKSGIVING.

(Only a Jingle with the Spirit of Thanksgiving.)
THANKSGIVING is a gala day. We look forward to with glee. Because it means a holiday For you as well as me.

A nice big tempting turkey. With mince pies, puddings, cake. And candies and goodies of all sorts. That leave us with the 'tummy ache.'

But surely this cannot be all. Other things there must be some. For Lincoln when he set aside this day. Thought naught of turkeys cake or candied plum.

His motives are quite plainly seen. Have we not a country grand? Countless blessings do we not receive. Every boy and girl, every woman and man?

Times are hard, depression's here. Still look around and you shall see. Many folks are much worse off. Than either you or me.

Let us then be very grateful. For the many things we own. And on this day let's thank the Lord. For the favors, He has to us shown.

SODALITY NEWS.

Last Thursday the Children of Mary held their regular weekly meeting. It was announced to us at this meeting that the candy booth, of which we were in charge at the fair, had netted the greatest proceeds. A fact, of course, of which we are very proud.

The Sodalists were also reminded that November is almost over and that therefore they have not many days left to help the Poor Souls in Purgatory during this month especially set aside for the relief of these suffering souls. Posters have been placed on the bulletin board in order to keep the Sodalists ever mindful of the Cross, Mortifications, Rosaries, (particularly those recited in the Eucharistic presence), Mass, and Holy Communion, etc., have also been put up.

To show in some little way their gratitude for the many benefits and favors bestowed on them during the past year the Sodalists pledged themselves to bring offerings for a few baskets of provisions which will be distributed among the poor for Thanksgiving.

At three o'clock the meeting adjourned with a closing prayer.

GOLD JAYS ANXIOUS TO START.

Sure the Gold Jays have been at work for more than a month now and to see them at practice these days you'd think the tournament must surely be right around the corner, so great is the pep and zest which they bring to their daily scrimmages. They haven't played a regular game yet, but are actually itching to take part in one and can hardly wait for the close of the football season, after which time Miss Perkins has promised them one.

Catherine Scafield Elected Captain

The regular Jays of last year were given the privilege of choosing one of their number to be captain of the team for 1933, and the honor fell to Catherine Scafield who was practically unanimously elected. This is Catherine's fourth year on
